One of the large events scheduled for next week is the luncheon in honor of Mrs. Grant Hampton, which will be given at the University Club on Monday by Mrs. George L. Nye.

Women who cannot keep their husband's political fights out of afternoon teas should stay at home. The other guests would have a better time.

Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Kiser have returned from their trip to California.

He—Shall I order a pint of wine?
She—Not if you expect to drink with me.
Town Talk.

THE SOCIAL AMBITION.

There are many women who have some sort of social ambition who make themselves impossible through the little things they overlook.

The most common occurrence is the carelessness displayed by any number of people who send out printed invitations, which is the very height of—what shall I say—thoughtlessness, perhaps.

If you can't afford to have them engraved, you can't afford to have social ambitions, for only the very rich, or the people whose position is so well established that they can do what they please, can be called eccentric. You would be called down.

There is a real engraver in town, there is a real engraving plant, and modesty forbids my mentioning anything but his name and address—John Held, 54 Main St.

SONNETS OF SCHOOLDAYS.

Sonnet of the Thoughtless Soda Clerk and the Impending Doom.

He clurks inn joneses stoar ann wenn shee goze
lan thare fore iskream soda i suppoas
He thinks he hass to amile att hur ann speke
too urn thee pay jonez gives him every weak.
he duzz nott seme to no thatt shee is mine
butt stands ann grins like a toothpower sine
awl sented upp with hare oil ann colan.
Ude think thee kanndy stoar wuz awl his own
too sea him bough ann alwuz here him say wot wil theese littul lady have tooday.

i thott att furst ide hitt him butt u sea
ide gett in jale fore salten battery ann shee wood be aloan ann he mite tri too thro a kias at her wenn ime not ni.
so i have kepp mi temper wenn hede pass
in frunt uv us an look lntoo thee glas
ann brush his hare befor he wenn too gett
ower iskream soda fore uss. butt ubett thatt blumbi thee day wil kum wenn he wil wisht heed bin moar thottful about me.

fore i am saven every sent i gett
Too bi owt joneses stoar. He own itt yett.
i saved ten sense lass weak ann every day
He try to putt a sent ur too away.
ann wenn iye got itt awl ann nede no moar
He tell ole jonez ive kum to bi thee stoar
Ann thenn He fire thatt clurk so doggon quick heel think heez bin struck bi a thowsand brick.
he smiles att hur ann never seems too sea
thee viper thatt is been nursed in me.

Fillet of beef with mushrooms may be what you want for a jaded appetite or one in good working order. The beef is the part of the demand we supply—high class beef fit to serve to any man, woman or child who appreciates the "worth while" kind of meat. What we can't furnish in the meat line is not to be had in Salt Lake City.
